THEOSCOPIA OR THE HIGHLY PRECIOUS GATE OF THE DIVINE INTUITION

CHAPTER I

What God is; and how we shall recognize his divine nature in his manifestation. 161

CHAPTER II

Of the mind, will, and thoughts of human life. How it has its origin from the will of God, and how it is an object or an image of God, in which God wills, works, and dwells. 173

CHAPTER III

*Of the natural ground. How Nature is a counter-stroke to the divine knowledge, whereby the eternal (one) will with the unfathomable, pernatural knowledge makes itself perceptible, vizable, effectual, and desireful. And what Mysterium magnum is. How all is from, through, and in God. How God is so near all things, and fills all.* 183

CHAPTER IV

Of the In and Out. How the eternal will of God carries itself outwards and into perceptibility, inwards and again into the One. Here may be understood to what end the being of this world was created, and what purpose the creaturely ground serves. Further, to what end joy and sorrow have become manifest; and how God is so near an things. 197
